The Appalachian dulcimer is a beautiful and versatile instrument that can be used to play a wide variety of music, including old time fiddle tunes. In this guide, we'll show you how to play some of the most popular old time fiddle tunes on the dulcimer, including "Sally Goodin'," "Cripple Creek," and "Old Joe Clark." We'll also provide you with tablature, notation, and audio examples to help you learn the tunes.

Getting Started

Before you can start playing old time fiddle tunes on the dulcimer, you'll need to learn a few basic techniques. These techniques include:

- Fretting: Fretting is the process of pressing down on the strings with your left hand to create different notes. The dulcimer has three strings, and each string is fretted in a different way.

- Picking: Picking is the process of using your right hand to pluck the strings and create sound. There are several different picking patterns that can be used to play old time fiddle tunes.
- Strumming: Strumming is the process of using your right hand to strum all three strings at once. Strumming can be used to create a rhythmic foundation for the tune.
